PUBLIC BALLOT: PUBLIC HEARING OF RT HON TONY BLAIR

Thank you for your interest in the Iraq Inquiry. This form outlines the process for allocating seats in the Inquiry hearing room at the Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre when the former Prime Minister, Mr Tony Blair, gives public evidence to the Inquiry Committee.

The Inquiry wants to ensure that every applicant entering the public ballot has an equal chance of gaining a place. This is why the following list of “do & don’ts” on how to complete your application have been put together. PLEASE READ THIS CAREFULLY BEFORE COMPLETING YOUR FORM

DO

- Do submit only one application per person. Each application will grant access for one individual to the hearing room. This will be the individual named on the application: tickets are strictly non-transferable.
- Do write in BLOCK CAPITALS.
- Do fill in and sign the form yourself. Should you be successful in the ballot you will be required to sign for receipt of your entry pass on the day of the hearing as part of the proof of identity process.
- Do post your form in good time. Late applications will not be accepted. The Iraq Inquiry cannot be held responsible for the non-receipt of your form.

DON'T

- Don't apply for tickets on someone else's behalf or as a present or gift, or to sell: tickets are strictly non-transferable. Any tickets made available for sale via any outlet will automatically be void.
- Don't submit your form electronically. It must be posted to the Inquiry.
- Don't submit more than one application. That will exclude your applications.
- Don't cross out, make amendments to your form or write any instructions or requests on the form. Any spoiled form will be void. Download a new form from our website if you need to.
- Don't use false particulars in applying for a ticket. It may be a criminal offence to do so.

When the Inquiry receives your correctly completed form, the details will be entered into the ballot for tickets. No acknowledgement or receipt will be sent. Successful applicants will be advised of the date and time of the evidence session for which they have been assigned a seat.

The public ballot is a lottery; there is no guarantee that your application will be successful

Please note that the proceedings will be streamed on the internet & may well be broadcast on national news channels

THE BALLOT PROCESS

The ballot will be conducted on 18 January 2010 and will be independently overseen.

WHAT DOES A TICKET GET ME?

Hearing sessions at the Inquiry are split into morning (AM) and afternoon (PM) sessions. To maximise the number of people who will have the opportunity to see the evidence sessions at first hand, two separate ballots will be conducted: one for AM tickets and one for PM tickets. All correct applications received will be entered into both the AM and PM draw.

ADDITIONAL VIEWING FACILITY

As it does for other witness sessions the Inquiry will make provision for an additional viewing facility within the QEII centre for those unable to be in the hearing room. Access to this room will primarily be determined by the result of the ballot. You will be notified if you have been allocated a ticket for the additional viewing facility and if you are on the 'reserve' list for the hearing room.

ENTRY INTO THE HEARING

Those who are successful in the ballot will be notified by the Iraq Inquiry in good time before the hearing. This notification will include details of what you must bring on the day to ensure you receive your hearing pass and details of the timing of the hearing, and which session (am or pm) you have been allocated. All those entering the hearing room or additional viewing facility will be expected to comply with the standards of behaviour and rules of access which will be set out in the notification successful applicants receive.

Anyone who does not comply with any of these requirements may be refused entry to the Inquiry suite or asked to leave the hearing room or additional viewing facility at any point in the proceedings.

The Inquiry reserves the right to deny entry to any persons not meeting the standards of entry set out for this hearing.

TIMING OF THE HEARING

Details of the timing of this evidence session will be released at a later date in line with the Inquiry's normal arrangements for announcing forthcoming hearing timetables. However in order to help inform your decision as to whether to apply for a ticket the hearing will take place between the 25 January and 05 February 2010.
